The 74,777 farms reported in 1850 had a total estimated valuation of $155,021,262. The value of all farm machinery and equipment was placed at $5,169,037, or an average per farm of $69. Yet, at the close of the "Decisive Era," there was ample occasion for emphasis on the mechanical phase of farming. Kentucky's investment in agriculture other than land, buildings, and livestock still amounted to less than $1.00 for each improved acre within the farms of the State.

The Farmer's Labor Problem

The labor supply, both for the farm and for the mechanical industries, were closely fitted to the demands of the dominant rural economy based upon grazing. Opportunities, both within the State and beyond its borders, were too many and inviting to hold for long in the ranks of paid labor men whose training fitted them for agricultural pursuits. Chief among these opportunities was that of becoming a landowner and farmer in one's own right. Only a small initial capital was required. If desired, lumbering or other industries assured a cash part-time income until the farm got on a paying basis. As a result, the white labor available was neither sufficient in numbers nor of the dependable character demanded by men whose business was the year-round job of stock production.

FOLKLORE

The Engineer's Child

A little child on a sick bed lay
And death was very near.
She was the pride and only child
Of a railroad engineer.
His duty called him from those he loved
And seeing that hope was dim.
While a tear he shed to his wife he said,
"Just have two lanterns dimmed.

Chorus:

Just hang a light as I pass tonight
And hang it where it can be seen.
If our baby's dead just show the red.
If she's better, then show the green.

In a little house by the railroad side
A mother with watchful eye.
Saw a gleam of hope and a feeble smile
As the train went rushing by.
Just one short look was his only chance
To see the light agleam.
In the midnight air there arose a pray'r.
Thank God! the light was green.

OLD SMOKY.

On the top of Ol' Smoky,
All covered in snow,
I lost my true-lover
By courting too slow.

A courting is pleasure,
A parting is grief,
A false-hearted lover
Is worse than a thief.

They tell you they love you,
They tell you more lies
Than cross-ties in the railroad,
Than the stars in the skies.

They tell you they they love you,
To give your heart ease;
When their back is turned on you
They court whom they please.

Now for the ingredients. Here are the usual amounts for about five thousand people:

800 lbs. meat (game preferred)	86 gallons tomato puree
200 lbs. fowl (game fowl if available)	24 gallons carrots
168 gallons tomatoes	1800 lbs. potatoes
36 gallons garden corn	6 bushels of onions
350 lbs. of cabbage.

Put the meat and chickens into the kettle about ten o'clock the morning before your Burgoo is to be served and cook until ten o'clock that night. Then take out all meat and chicken with huge strainer-dippers, leaving the rich liquid to receive the vegetables.

County History

POWELL COUNTY

POWELL COUNTY was established in the year 1852, out of parts of Montgomery, Clark and Estill counties and was named from Lazarus W. Powell, then Governor. Portions of its territory were taken to help form; Wolf county in 1860; Menifee county in 1869; Lee county in 1870. Before the latter was formed, Powell county was about 32 miles long by 12 miles wide. (b) Act approved Jan. 7, 1852, as follows: "----all those parts of Montgomery, Clarke and Estill counties within the following boundaries, to-wit: beginning at the point where the division line of the county of Owsley and Morgan intersect the line of Montgomery county; thence with the Morgan and Montgomery line to the Montgomery and Bath line; thence with the Bath and Montgomery line to the top of the dividing ridge between the waters of Red River and Slate Creek; thence with the top of said ridge or mountain to the point where the road leading from French's mill to Mountsterling crosses the mountain, which point is known as Morris' mountain; thence in a straight line to a point on the South-

There has never been in the history of the county any sudden fluctuations in the population of the County or of its leading towns. Growth has been slow but steady. In 1860, the population of the County was 2,257. In 1930 the population was 5,800. In 1860, Stanton had a population of only 59. In 1930

Washington County Court House

The Commons or "Public Ground" was set aside for public use by the first Anglo-Saxon settlers in Springfield (1783). "The lot contains five poles front and Twelve poles back". In the beginning the Commons was used as pasture for domestic animals. Later, during summer the lot was used as a place for religious worship and as a place for political speeches.

After the District of Kentucky was admitted as a state to the Union (June 1792) Nelson County was divided. The eastern section of the county was formed into a new county and named in honor of George Washington, benefactor of the Revolutionary soldiers who were among the first settlers in the county.

With greater responsibilities of government, public buildings were necessary for efficient county government; therefore the "Public Ground" was donated to the county as a site for a county Courthouse.

From 1792 until erection of the first Courthouse (log), Jan. 1794, County Court was held in private homes in Springfield. One home mentioned at this time was the "house of Hugh McCloy," prominent member of the Presbyterian Church. In Nov. 1794 the first Courthouse was destroyed by fire.

Following the destruction of the first Courthouse, County Court was held in the home of Henry Hilton until the erection of the second building.

The second Courthouse (brick) was erected by John Dowdal for $1000, July, 1797. The main entrance of this building was on Cross Street. It was destroyed by fire, 1814.

The third and present building (brick) was erected, 1816, by Thomas H. Letcher for the sum of $4195. The walls of the first story were to be "2 1/2 bricks thick" and the walls of the second story were to be "2 bricks thick, and 24 feet from the ground to the eaves."

All courts (County Courts) have been held in this building since 1816. In 1930 a fire originated in a room on second floor, but it was discovered early and slight damage was done.

Although the present building has stood 122 years, it is in a splendid state of preservation. It is a shrine for patriotic Americans who make pilgrimages to view the original Lincoln-Hanks Marriage Certificate, records, and memorials.

Answer: When the County Dept of Justice was established in 1792 the first Court met at the house of Francis Dumbrell, who lived near to the place where Springfield was laid out in 1792. Very soon however the center of the County was determined by survey and found to be what are now the corporate limits of Springfield. The first Court House a small log structure scarcely more than a Cabin, stood at or near the site where the Springfield Graded School now stands. As soon as the Court could take the necessary steps to provide a more commodious Court House, such a structure, built of logs like the first, was erected on the site where the

POSSUM SURE SMELLS GOOD

~~Joe Saylor and his wife, Anna, with their three children, live in the large front room of a two-room shabby unpainted house setting back from the public road going up the side of Wallins Creek. There was no fence about the place, such as you see around the other homes to protect the house and yard from wandering stock.~~

"Yeah man, I am going to have some good eating for supper." Joe Saylor was talking as he cut the hide from an opossum, which hung from a small tree beside the house.

They wanted us to work on Labor Day, in '37. Atter we wouldn't work, they fired us."

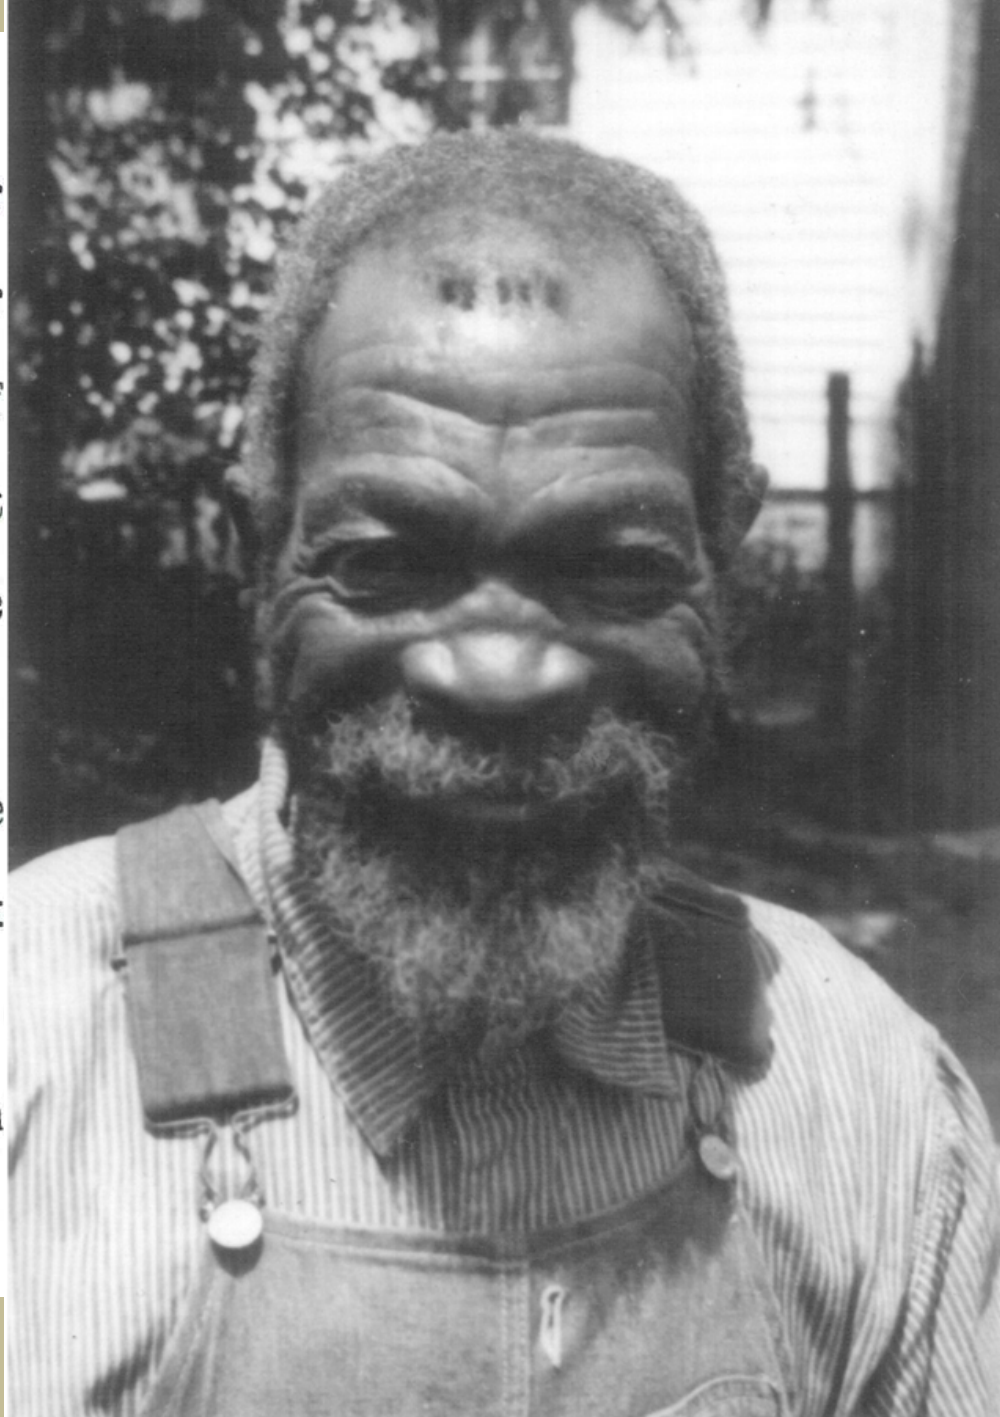

memorable place in the annals of this war. She was Mrs. Betty ^{Taylor} Phillips, wife of Capt. William S. Phillips, of Uniontown. On September 14, 1861, she joined her husband, then a lieutenant in the Fourth Regiment of the Kentucky Confederate Infantry, at Camp Boone. From then until the close of the war she served [✓] with equal pride in the modest tasks or the valiant endeavors of this military command. After an engagement she would remain behind to attend to the wounded. She was once advised to go to Glasgow to procure a pass to

OLIVER LEWIS

The first Kentucky Derby was won by a Negro jockey. Oliver Lewis, on Aristides in 1875. The Courier Journal at that time had the following to say of the race: Aristides forced the pace all the way for his stable companion, Chesapeake, and so had no respite at all, which makes his performance a very remarkable one. Volcano was a good horse and was dangerous up to the last instant, as was Verdigris, who had beat him at Nashville. Bob Wooley came in
