Overview

The Supreme Court of Kentucky is the court of last resort and the final interpreter of state law. It consists of seven justices who are elected from the seven appellate districts and serve eight-year terms. The Chief Justice of the Commonwealth is chosen by his or her colleagues and serves a term of four years. The justices, as a panel, hear appeals of decisions from the lower courts and issue decisions or "opinions" on cases. A case, which comes before the Supreme Court, is not retried. Attorneys with written briefs and oral arguments addressing the legal issues, which the Court must decide, present the case to the Supreme Court. Cases involving the death penalty, life imprisonment or imprisonment for twenty years or more go directly from the circuit court level, where the cases are tried, to the Supreme Court for review as a matter of right. The Supreme Court is also responsible for establishing rules of practice and procedures for the Court of Justice, which includes the conduct of judges and attorneys.

I. CIVIL:

A. Jane Colleen Younger v. Evergreen Group, Inc., University Medical Center, Inc., Wehr Constructors, Inc.

2009-SC-000814-DG

March 22, 2012

Opinion of the Court by Justice Cunningham, reversing and remanding. All sitting; all concur. Appellant appealed to the Court of Appeals from a trial court judgment granting summary judgment in favor of the Appellees. The Appellees then moved to dismiss the appeal as untimely, under CR 73.02(1)(a), contending that the trial court wrongly granted Appellant's motion for relief under CR 60.02. The Court of Appeals agreed and granted the Appellees' motion to dismiss. On appeal to Supreme Court, Appellant argued that it was improper for the Court of Appeals to consider the CR 60.02 order in a motion to dismiss. Appellant also claimed that the relief granted by the trial court pursuant to CR 60.02 was proper.

Overview

The Supreme Court of Kentucky is the court of last resort and the final interpreter of state law. It consists of seven justices who are elected from the seven appellate districts and serve eight-year terms. The Chief Justice of the Commonwealth is chosen by his or her colleagues and serves a term of four years. The justices, as a panel, hear appeals of decisions from the lower courts and issue decisions or "opinions" on cases. A case, which comes before the Supreme Court, is not retried. Attorneys with written briefs and oral arguments addressing the legal issues, which the Court must decide, present the case to the Supreme Court. Cases involving the death penalty, life imprisonment or imprisonment for twenty years or more go directly from the circuit court level, where the cases are tried, to the Supreme Court for review as a matter of right. The Supreme Court is also responsible for establishing rules of practice and procedures for the Court of Justice, which includes the conduct of judges and attorneys.

Judicial Conduct Commission

The Judicial Conduct Commission is the only entity authorized under the Kentucky Constitution to take disciplinary action against a sitting Kentucky judge. The Commission investigates and reviews complaints against judges and, when warranted, conducts hearings regarding the alleged misconduct where evidence is presented.

Possible sanctions for misconduct range from confidential reprimands for minor technical violations to removal from office for major misconduct. While the great majority of Kentucky's judges are committed to maintaining the high standards expected of the judiciary, an effective method of imposing sanctions on judges who engage in misconduct or wrongdoing is essential to the efficient operation of our judicial system. Commission proceedings provide a fair and objective means to
