

What to Expect from KDLA's Regional Consultants

Regional consultants are here to help you make your library a place your friends and neighbors can't do without! Some of the things regional consultants do to serve libraries include:

Attends meetings to get to know your library and offer the most relevant information possible to your library director and board.

Advises your director and the board on policy development, personnel issues, public relations, grant writing, collection development and other library issues.

Assists with compliance with DLG deadlines & requirements.

Serves as a resource person to offer you new ideas and best practice information from around Kentucky and the world.

Provides training and orientation for local trustees and library staff as requested.

Guides you to use the Kentucky Public Library Standards to provide your community with the library it needs.

Assists with the library's Annual Report and other government-required reports.

Coordinates meetings for the region's directors and other special groups of employees.

Helps you decide who to call for assistance.

Assists you in making the best decisions for your library and your community.
