LearningExpress Library tracks individual progress, so users must register individually.

You may browse content on the EBSCO LearningExpress site before registering. Once you locate an individual learning resource that you would like to use, you will be prompted to register before you can access it.

To register

From a computer within your provider institution, simply click the "Sign In/Register" from the upper right side of the blue horizontal navigation bar at the top of any page of the site. Click the "Register" button to register as a new user, verify your institution and enter your information in the required fields, and then click "Register."

From a computer outside of your provider institution's network (such as from home), you must first register as a New User from the custom, authenticated EBSCO LearningExpress link on your library's website. Missing this New User step may result in a registration error message. For future visits, simply sign in as a Returning User with your email address as your username and the password you created at registration.

For more information, see the EBSCO LearningExpress Quick Start Guide at help.ebsco.com/interfaces/LearningExpress/All_Products/EBSCO_LearningExpress_Quick_Start_Guide.

Hello, and welcome to the Microsoft Excel 2016 Basic course. My name is Sherri Tingle and I'll be your instructor. I'm a Microsoft certified trainer, a Microsoft partner, and I'm also certified at the highest levels in Excel 2016. I was actually one of the first people to pass the Microsoft Excel 2016 certification test. I've not only been using the most recent version of Excel, but I've been using Excel since it became available in Windows. I'm looking forward to sharing the many useful tips and essential skills that I've learned over the years. Here are the topics that we'll be covering in this course: we're going to start off with applying selection and viewing techniques. Next, we'll be utilizing data entry and editing techniques. Third, we'll be working with Excel data, followed by formatting an Excel worksheet. And then a very essential part of Excel will be performing calculations. And we'll finish up with finishing details. By the time you finished this course, I know you'll have a solid understanding of Microsoft Excel's basic tasks, and you'll be prepared to develop those highly professional and quality spreadsheets that you need in your personal and professional world. Thanks for watching, and let's go get started with Excel 2016.

About This Test

This practice test will familiarize you with the Analytical Writing measure of the Graduate Record Examination® (GRE®) revised General Test. Like the official measure, it is comprised of two 30-minute analytical writing tasks:

- an "Analyze an Issue" task
- an "Analyze an Argument" task

This practice allows you to compose your responses to the given tasks, and then compare them with examples of responses at the "6" score level. You will also get a scoring guide for each task that includes a detailed explanation of how official GRE graders will score your responses. You may use this scoring guide to score your own responses.

Writing an Essay or Response

Type an essay or response directly in the box below the question. If there is no input box displayed beneath your question, you will be provided with directions for writing your essay or response on a separate sheet of paper.

Changing an Essay or Response

While typing an essay or response in an input box, you may go back and make changes to your text at any time. However, once you click Complete My Test, you will not be able to change your essays or responses.

Section Time Remaining: 00:28:26
Test Time Remaining: 00:58:26

1 In 30 minutes, devise and draft a response to the following issue. A response that fails to address the assigned issue will receive no credit. Carefully consider the instructions and respond to them specifically, making sure to bolster your position with pertinent arguments and illustrations derived from your personal reading, experience, observation, or studies.

Fiction should not be a required form of reading.

Discuss whether you agree or disagree with this statement and explain the reasoning that formed your position. While composing your response, be sure to describe specific circumstances where adopting the statement's recommendation would or would not be beneficial and explain how those examples help form your position.

Your work will be judged on the following criteria:

- responsiveness to specific task instructions
- attention to the complexities of the issue
- organization, development, and expression of ideas
- effective support of your ideas with strong reasons and/or examples
- command of standard written English.

Take a few moments to think about the issue and the task instructions and then plan your response before you begin writing.
